

Consent Form – Zero Waste Eco Festival

In the face of inexorable population growth, urbanization, and economic development, there is a pressing need to increase dialogue and awareness regarding the environment. The “Zero Waste Eco Festival” seeks to tackle the desensitization associated with urban lifestyles by creating a confluence of sustainable products, designs, and ideas that have the potential to mobilize individuals with regards to climate change and the environment at large.

This includes companies working on sustainable technology; organic and local farmers working with sustainable practices; and members from the civil society and academia that can stimulate dialogue and debate about the environment. Accordingly, the festival will be powered by renewable energy, waste will be recycled and composted, and water will be filtered at the venue.

The event seeks to create an immersive experience where attendees partake in sustainable practices that reduce their individual ecological footprints. The event will bring people together in nature to enjoy live music, interactive workshops, and climate charged discussions. Attendees will participate in activities such as waste management, energy production, and environment themed competitions.

The Save the Children Safeguarding and Communication team to ensure all protocols for child protection and child privacy are intact.

To promote innovation in terms of sustainability as well as engagement of children and youth in the dialogue of sustainability, school and university students will be invited to compete in various competitions. The projects will be displayed at the event as well as digitally on Save the Children and Zero Waste Eco Festival digital space.

Students will be encouraged to take part in multiple workshops and on-ground competitions, solely based around the concept of innovation, creativity, sustainability and climate change.

While part of the event, we would like to capture your story and / or your child’s story through words, photo, film, or sound. We may show your story or image on the internet, on television, in newspapers, in reports or other places, anywhere in the world. Your full name and exact location will not be shared.

We may also share your story and image with other charities, partners, and children’s organisations, and with the donors who fund our work, here and in other countries around the world. They may share your story or image in their own publications.

You can tell us if there is information you do not want to share. If you change your mind in the future, and you do not want us to continue to use your story or image, you can let us know and we will stop using it. Some people may still be able to see the image or story from earlier uses and the continued use by our partners.

We collect your contact details with your story so we can contact you if needed but we do not share this information with others. See below for details about how to contact us if you change your mind, would like to ask us what information we hold about you, or have any questions or complaints.
